MERIDIAN FINANCIAL SERVICES,
INC., a North Carolina Corporation,
GREGORY B. SHEPERD, President,
VICTORIA KINCKE, Secretary, DANIEL
MARCHESONI, Assistant Secretary,
WILLIAM L. HARVEY, chairperson of the Defendant.

ORDER

This matter comes before the Court on Plaintiff's motion for remand (Dkt. No. 3). Having thoroughly considered the parties' briefing and the relevant record, the Court finds oral argument unnecessary and hereby GRANTS the motion for the reasons explained herein and DIRECTS the Clerk of Court to remand this case back to Snohomish County Superior Court.

I. BACKGROUND

The Defendants in this lawsuit are a financial services corporation and its officers (hereafter "Meridian"). On September 20, 2016, Plaintiff Scott Dustin (hereafter "Dustin") initiated a lawsuit against Meridian for violations of the Washington State Consumer Protection

1 Act. (Dkt. No. 9-1 at 3.) On that day, Dustin served Meridian’s registered agent with a summons 2 and complaint. (Dkt. No. 3-1.) At the time of service, the summons and complaint had not been 3 filed in state court. (Dkt. No. 8 at 2.) The summons named the Snohomish County Superior 4 Court as having jurisdiction over the matter and stated:

5       You may demand that the Plaintiff file this lawsuit with the Court. If you do so, 6       the demand must be in writing and must be served upon the person signing this 7       Summons. Within fourteen (14) days after you serve the demand, the Plaintiff 8       must file this lawsuit with the Court, or the service on you of this Summons and 9       Complaint will be void.

10 (Dkt. No. 9-1 at 3.)

11       Meridian never demanded that Dustin file its complaint in state court. (Dkt. No. 8 at 2.)
12 Over the following months, Dustin and Meridian conducted settlement negotiations. (Id.) On 13 May 18, 2017, Dustin informed Meridian that he would be filing the previously served complaint 14 and summons in Snohomish County Superior Court. (Id. at 3.) On June 13, 2017, Dustin filed the 15 complaint and summons. (Id.) On June 29, 2017, Dustin emailed Meridian a copy of the filed 16 complaint and summons, along with an acceptance of service form. (Id. at 3-4.) Meridian never 17 signed the forms. (Id. at 2.)

18       On July 18, 2017, Meridian filed a motion to remove the case to this Court. (Dkt. No. 1.)

19 II. DISCUSSION

20 A. Legal Standard for Removal and Remand

21       A party to a civil action brought in state court may remove that action to federal court if 22 the district court would have had original jurisdiction at the time of both commencement of the 23 action and removal. See 28 U.S.C. § 1441(a); 14B Charles Alan Wright & Arthur R. Miller, 24 Federal Practice and Procedure § 3723 (4th ed. 2013). There is a “strong presumption” against 25 removal, and federal jurisdiction “must be rejected if there is any doubt as to the right of removal 26 in the first instance.” Gaus v. Miles, Inc., 980 F.2d 564, 566 (9th Cir.1992).

1 A defendant must remove a lawsuit to federal court within the time limits established by 2 28 U.S.C. § 1446(b). That statute provides:

3 The notice of removal of a civil action or proceeding shall be filed within thirty 4 days after the receipt by the defendant, through service or otherwise, of a copy of 5 the initial pleading setting forth the claim for relief upon which such action or 6 proceeding is based, or within thirty days after the service of summons upon the 7 defendant if such initial pleading has then been filed in court and is not required 8 to be served on the defendant, whichever period is shorter.

9 28 U.S.C. § 1446(b). Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1447(c), a plaintiff may challenge a motion 10 for removal based on procedural defects, and move to remand a case to state court within 30 days 11 after the filing of the notice of removal. See N. Cal. Dist. Council of Laborers v. Pittsburgh-Des 12 Moines Steel Co., 69 F.3d 1034, 1037 (9th Cir. 2003).

13 B. Defendant's Notice of Removal Was Untimely Under § 1446(b)

14 Neither party challenges the Court's subject matter jurisdiction over this lawsuit; rather, 15 the disagreement is over whether Meridian's motion to remove was timely filed. (Dkt. Nos. 3 16 and 8.) Dustin argues that Meridian had to seek removal within 30 days of being served with a 17 summons and complaint on September, 20 2016. (Dkt. No. 3 at 3.) Meridian counters that the 18 complaint it received had not been filed in state court and therefore did not trigger the removal 19 deadline of § 1446(b). (Dkt. No. 8 at 6.) Meridian's position boils down to this: "It is impossible 20 for a defendant to 'remove' a lawsuit which had not yet been filed." (Id. at 5.)

21 1. A lawsuit does not have to be filed in state court prior to removal

22 Filing a lawsuit in state court is not a condition precedent to its removal to federal court.
23 The Supreme Court has interpreted § 1446(b) to determine what circumstances initiate the 30-24 day window for a defendant to remove a lawsuit from state court. See Murphy Bros. v. Michetti
25 Pipe Stringing, Inc., 526 U.S. 344 (1999). In Murphy Bros., the Court held that the triggering 26 event for the 30-day limit of § 1446(b) is "simultaneous service of the summons and complaint, or receipt of the complaint, 'through service or otherwise,' after and apart from service of the summons, but not by mere receipt of the complaint unattended by any formal service." Id. at 348.

1 Applying that standard, the Court determined that receipt of a faxed copy of a complaint,
2 unaccompanied by a summons or formal service of process, did not trigger the defendant's time
3 to remove under § 1446(b). Id. at 356. Underlying the Court's interpretation of § 1446(b) was 4 the principle that an "individual or entity named as a defendant is not obliged to engage in 5 litigation unless notified of the action, and brought under a court's authority, by formal process."
6 Id. at 347. The Court concluded that a defendant is not required to remove a lawsuit until she is 7 formally served with a complaint and thereby subject to a court's authority. Id. at 356.

8 Notwithstanding the standard established in Murphy Bros., Meridian contends that "a 9 party may not remove a case to federal court before it has commenced in state court." Bush v.
10 Cheaptickets, Inc., 425 F.3d 683, 686 (9th Cir. 2005); (Dkt. No. 8 at 5.) While this may be true, 11 Meridian incorrectly assumes that a lawsuit only "commences" once it is filed. (Id. at 5.)

12 When dealing with cases removed from state court, federal courts are bound by state 13 rules and laws regarding the commencement of a civil action. Bush, 425 F.3d at 686 ("A state's 14 own laws and rules of procedure determine when a dispute may be deemed a cognizable legal 15 action in state court." (citing Herb v. Pitcairn, 324 U.S. 117, 120 (1945))). While the filing of a 16 complaint normally commences a lawsuit, that is not true in all jurisdictions. Compare Fed. R.
17 Civ. P. 3 ("A civil action is commenced by filing a complaint with the court."), with Murphy 18 Bros., 526 U.S. 344 at 351-52 (noting that in some states, such as New York, service of the 19 summons commences the action).

20 In Washington, a lawsuit can be commenced either by service of a summons and 21 complaint or by filing a complaint. See Wash. Rev. Code § 4.28.020; Wash. Civ. R. 3(a); Seattle
22 Seahawks, Inc. v. King County, 913 P.2d 375, 376 (1996) ("CR 3 clearly and unmistakably
23 provides that an action is commenced today by service of a summons or by the filing of a 24 complaint.") Once a lawsuit is commenced, a court is deemed to have acquired authority and 25 jurisdiction over all subsequent proceedings. See Wash. Rev. Code § 4.28.020; Seattle Seahawks, 26 Inc., 913 P.2d at 376. Under Washington law, a defendant's 30 day clock for filing notice of

1 removal begins either when she is served with summons and complaint, or when the complaint is 2 filed in court because at that point the defendant has been “notified of the action, and brought 3 under a court’s authority, by formal process.” Murphy Bros., 526 U.S. at 347.

4                   2. Meridian Failed to Remove the Lawsuit Within 30 days of Being Served with 5                   a Summons and Complaint

6                   Here, Meridian’s 30-day clock to remove Dustin’s lawsuit began running when its 7 registered agent was served with the summons and complaint on September 20, 2016. It is 8 uncontested that Meridian was served on that day. (Dkt. No. 8 at 2.) Nor does Meridian argue 9 that Dustin’s method of service was deficient or failed to conform to Washington’s Superior
10 Court Civil Rules. (Id.) Having been properly served with a summons and complaint, Meridian 11 had until October 21, 2016 to file its notice of removal; however, it did not seek removal until 12 July 18, 2017, a date well beyond the 30-day limit of § 1446(b). (See Dkt. No. 1.)

13                   Meridian argues that “If Plaintiff was correct that service of an unfiled Summons and 14 Complaint was sufficient, a plaintiff could avoid removal in every case by serving the unfiled 15 Complaint more than 30 days prior to filing the lawsuit.” (Dkt. No. 8 at 5.) Meridian’s position is 16 neither supported by the removal statute nor Washington law.

17                   Meridian ignores that under Washington’s Civil Rules a defendant can compel a plaintiff 18 to file an unfiled complaint. See Wash. Civ. R. 3. (“Upon written demand by any other party, the 19 plaintiff instituting the action shall pay the filing fee and file the summons and complaint within 20 14 days after service of the demand or the service shall be void.”) In fact, the summons Dustin 21 served on Meridian contained that exact language and provided Meridian the opportunity to 22 force Dustin to file his complaint. (Dkt. No. 9-1 at 3.) Meridian did not take action and instead
23 chose to wait to file its notice of removal until Dustin filed his complaint in Snohomish County
24 Superior Court. (Dkt. No. 8 at 4.)

25                   Meridian has not demonstrated that its notice of removal was timely filed under the 26 requirements of § 1446(b). The Court therefore REMANDS this case back to the Snohomish

1 County Superior Court.

2 C. The Court is Awarding Attorney Fees Because Defendant’s Motion for 3 Removal Was not Objectively Reasonable

4 If a district court remands a case removed from state court it may “require payment of 5 just costs and any actual expenses, including attorney fees, incurred as a result of the removal.”
6 28 U.S.C. 1447(c). “[A]bsent unusual circumstances, attorney’s fees should not be awarded 7 when the removing party has an objectively reasonable basis for removal.” Martin v. Franklin
8 Capital Corp., 546 U.S. 132, 141 (2005). A frivolous removal action that provides no basis for 9 removal is not objectively reasonable. See Lussier v. Dollar Tree Stores, Inc., 518 F.3d 1062, 10 1066 (9th Cir. 2008) (citing Patel v. Del Taco, Inc., 446 F.3d 996, 999-1000 (9th Cir.2006)).

11 Dustin asks the Court for attorney fees asserting that it is “unthinkable that Defendants 12 did not know that service of an unfiled summons and complaint upon a corporation’s registered 13 agent for service of process is valid in Washington State ...” (Dkt. No. 10 at 7.) Dustin further 14 argues that Meridian’s attempt to remove and then oppose remand was a tactic meant to delay 15 and increase the costs of litigation. (Id.) Accordingly, Dustin asks for $3,150 in attorney fees for 16 the nine hours spent writing the motion for remand and reply brief. (Id.)

17 The Court is troubled by Meridian’s response to Dustin’s motion to remand—both in the 18 content of its argument, or lack thereof, as well as the language in which it was delivered. In its 19 response, Meridian conclusively argues that “it is impossible for a defendant to ‘remove’ a 20 lawsuit suit which has not yet been filed.” (Dkt. No. 5 at 7). Yet, it did not cite to a single case 21 that bolsters that assertion. As noted in Section B, supra, that position is not supported by federal 22 or state law regarding removal under § 1446(b).

23 Not only did Meridian make conclusory statements about the strength of its position, it 24 attacked the legitimacy of Dustin’s basis for remand: “Plaintiff’s motion is frivolous” (Dkt. No. 8 25 at 1.); “[Plaintiff’s motion] is without authority” (Id. at 5); and “Plaintiff’s counsel’s own
26 conduct undermines the very position Plaintiff has taken in this Motion.” (Id. at 6.) The Court

1 will not condone these types of statements, particularly when Meridian failed to address, much 2 less counter, Dustin's legal arguments for its motion to remand.

3 Given this, the Court finds that Meridian's basis for removal was not objectively 4 reasonable and awards Dustin attorney fees in the amount of $3,150. The Court finds that these 5 fees are reasonable given that counsel for Dustin spent approximately nine hours drafting its 6 motion for remand and reply brief at an hourly rate of $350. (Dkt. No. 10-1.)

7 III. CONCLUSION

8 For the foregoing reasons, Plaintiff's motion for Remand (Dkt. No. 3) is GRANTED.
9 Plaintiff is AWARDED $3,150 in attorney fees. The Clerk of Court is DIRECTED to remand 10 this case to the Snohomish County Superior Court.

11 DATED this 31st day of August, 2017.
